Macquarie University Private Hospital – Acrovyn

The Macquarie University Private Hospital development, built by Boulderstone, one of Australia's largest and most reputable builder's, was one of the largest health projects in NSW costing approx $160 million.

Construction Specialties Acrovyn, were appointed as the suppliers of wall protection systems. The wall protection systems comprised of handrails, crashrails, corner guards, door and door frame protection. The Acrovyn wall protection casts a striking form along the inside walls of the Macquarie University Private Hospital, with Chinchilla and Driftwood tones combining sophisticated shape, functionality and technology and complimenting the stylish and modern look of the hospital.

Construction Specialties Acrovyn provided a professional and quality service on the duration of the project. The team are proactive in meeting the stringent deadlines required, planned the supply of product and constantly communicate effectively with Boulderstone.

Overall, Boulderstone were pleased with the professionalism, performance and product quality of Construction Specialties Acrovyn and would recommend Acrovyn wall protection systems for any hospitality project both large and small.
